ATR VERDICT: Tfou was well fancied when finishing second in an Ayr bumper on his racecourse introduction and looks an interesting prospect now switching to hurdles. However, he may struggle to contain HASTY BROOK, who makes his debut for Rebecca Menzies after impressing when winning at Clonmel at the start of this year. Hidden Heroics has been the subject of a wind operation since his last run and cannot be discounted either.

ATR VERDICT: JUST DON'T KNOW continued his good run of form when winning at Ayr last month and, off a 5lb higher mark, the Paul Robson-trained nine-year-old looks the most appealing option. Seemingly So registered his first victory over fences when scoring at Musselburgh on his latest start and warrants respect, while Speak Of The Devil is a consistent type and can also get involved.

ATR VERDICT: The four-year-old PRIVATORY impressed when winning at Cagnes-Sur-Mer on his sole career outing back in December, travelling well and scoring with something in hand. The son of Motivator looks an intriguing prospect on his first run for Gary Moore and can prove too strong for Corrigeen Rock, who was still in contention when falling at Musselburgh last time. Happy Du Mesnil makes his first start for Evan Williams and is the pick of the remainder.

Global Agreement could never get into a rhythm after an early mistake over C&D last month and is capable of better, while Alrightjack drops back in trip and looks best of the rest.

ATR VERDICT: DOUGLAS TALKING has been a revelation since switching to fences, winning on both of his starts, including when scoring comfortably from the front over C&D last month. Further improvement may be forthcoming and he can get the better of Another Crick, who has the cheekpieces fitted after running below expectations at Newbury. ATR VERDICT: BAVINGTON BOB made it a hat-trick when following up a brace of C&D victories at Carlisle last month, and the seven-year-old appears capable of further progression off a 5lb higher mark. The Ferry Master may have benefited from a wind operation and could pose a solid threat, with this being a likely preparation for the Scottish National, in which he finished fourth last season. Geryville, who has been mostly consistent since moving to the UK, completes the shortlist.

Jamie Snowden's six-year-old remains unexposed on his handicap debut, with the step up in distance potentially bringing about even more improvement. Kamaxos placed in a competitive handicap at Newbury in December and has to be respected along with West To The Bridge, who arrives in search of a hat-trick.

The Neil Mulholland-trained mare made a bad mistake two out and weakened quickly after it, so she may still be fairly treated. Another Theatre bumped into a progressive rival when runner-up at Carlisle and looks the likeliest danger. Miss Tara Moss is another worth consideration.

ATR VERDICT: TWILIGHT TONE has a 6lb penalty to shoulder after a comfortable success over C&D. It was the three-year-old's first run in handicap company and the manner of his victory suggested there are more races to be won with him. Fraulein Margot steps up to this trip for the first time on her handicap debut and any market support would be significant. Little Raven was denied a hat-trick at Chelmsford, but is interesting now dropping back in distance.

ATR VERDICT: INDEPENDENCE DAY ended a drought of almost four years at Kempton and he can follow up. The Chelsea Banham-trained gelding looked to be in a spot of bother with two furlongs to go but once Joey Haynes pulled him out and he saw some daylight, he quickened up in nice style. Divine Connection was narrowly denied at Southwell when the first-time blinkers seemed to have the desired effect and she is feared most. Alala is another who warrants respect.

ATR VERDICT: Trainer Phillip McBride has had two winners from his last three runners and that bodes well for BROUGHTONS PEACE. The filly was the subject of a monster gamble when fourth over C&D in November and hasn't been beaten too far in two subsequent appearances. Dark Kris won on his stable debut for Ivan Furtado at Lingfield recently and could go close again. Maahi Ve has been runner-up on her last two starts, most recently behind Dark Kris, and can go one better soon.

ATR VERDICT: Khurumbi was the subject of significant market support when a close fourth at Newcastle on her latest start and warrants the utmost respect. However, she may have to settle for minor honours behind the Archie Watson-trained newcomer WHERESTHEBARBIL, who is a half-sister to the useful sprinter Popmaster. On Reflection also catches the eye on pedigree and is another debutant to note.

Long Handicap: Lady Alavesa 7 - 12

ATR VERDICT: ACROSS THE NILE registered her second successive win over C&D when scoring on her debut for Mark Loughnane, and the daughter of Iffraaj looks open to further improvement. The unexposed Dubai Lady has the hood fitted and can make her presence felt, while the James Fanshawe-trained Crown Power may be suited by the drop in trip and cannot be ruled out either.
